

INCIDENTS ABOUT TOWN.

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST HERE AND THERE.

A good many strange faces are seen on the streets.

Mr. Charles T. Morris and family are at Sparta, N. J.

J. W. Wheatley, wife and son, of America, Ga., are in town.

Mrs. Cook, of New Orleans, is spending the summer at Mr. Nash's.

The Post Office will be opened until 10:30 o'clock A. M. on the 5th of July.

Messrs. Peloubet & Co. have discharged thirty or thirty-five of their employees.

The Archery Club will meet at Mr. S. Haskell's on the afternoon of the 5th of July.

Mrs. John Van Winkle and Miss Kate Van Winkle are spending the summer at Saratoga.

The several boarding-houses of Watervliet are reported as being full to overflowing with guests.

The State Teachers' Association will meet at Long Branch on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 6 and 7.

Rev. Mr. Crane, of Montclair, preached in the First Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening last.

Mr. J. H. Root has just left town for Massachusetts yesterday where they will spend the summer.

The New York City Company are receiving a large amount of freight over the Greenway.

Miss Lillian Allen leaves for Saratoga today with her sister, Mrs. Wheeler, of Newark, and her husband.

Mr. A. S. Winger, who was so badly injured by being struck by a wagon, is still in the hospital.

James Dodd, and most of his family are in the Catskills. They left on Thursday, and will be there several weeks.

Mr. Smith E. Perry has been legally appointed a Committee on the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in Bloomfield.

Mr. H. Weeks, of the firm of H. B. Shears & Co., has recently taken the house of Mr. Nathaniel Baldwin, on Broad street.

The regular meeting of the Township Committee will take place at their room in Library Hall on Wednesday evening next.

Many people who are now looking for a place to spend the Fourth of July could not better than take a trip to Greenwood Lake.

C. P. Kaylor, of Montclair, is sitting up the stormer occupied by Mr. E. D. Hall, and will hereafter occupy both that and his present stand.

A copy of Percy's pocket dictionary of Coney Island has been received. It gives a great deal of information that will be of value to visitors to the island.

Items of local interest are always gladly received by the Record for publication. Any one leaving such at the office will confer a favor upon the paper.

As the return of the glorious national birthday draws nigh, it would be well for mothers to make preparations for the busy days of their little ones.

Miss Smith and Miss Florence Lee have gone to Newport and Narragansett Pier for the remainder of the summer season. They left on Thursday morning.

Mr. Samuel J. Giffy, the advertising agent of Messrs. Marshall & Ball, the fashionable clothes of Newark, was in town Wednesday on business for the firm.

A Hancock and English club was formed in Newark Tuesday night by the veterans in that city. Mr. Amos E. Taylor, of Bloomfield, was appointed as one of the committee.

As the summer season has commenced its career, Sunday school excursions and picnics will soon be the order of the day. A number of such programmes are in preparation.

The Church of the Sacred Heart will hold a picnic at Waverly's Grove on the 5th of July. The Declaration of Independence will be read and other features of interest introduced.

Mr. W. W. Schaeffer sprained his ankle quite badly last Saturday, by stepping on a stone while laughing from his wagon. His injury was quite painful, but he is able to be about.

Messrs. H. B. Shears & Co. are receiving a good deal of grain just now over the Greenway Lake road. The firm is putting up new machinery, and expect to run their mill night and day.

County Superintendent of Schools Davis will attend the meeting of the Superintendents of Schools at Long Branch, which is held on Tuesday July 6. Matters of special interest will be brought before the board.

Mr. Marshall (Hobbes) is rapidly receiving advertisements for his "Mirror Bulletin," which has been placed in the ladies' room of the D. L. & W. R. Depot. They are to be of very neat design, on glass, and will present a very attractive appearance.

Lead ball and quarter dollars are in circulation. Mr. T. C. Dancer, the new man, thinks that he gets more than his share of them. It is singular how many people who have these counterfeits, passed on them without keeping possession of them longer than a day.

The Rev. Edward A. Coe, now pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church of New York, whose family has been stopping at Mrs. Broughton's for some time past, is in town this week and left with his family for Leiper, Mass. Wednesday, where they will spend the summer.

The bridge connecting the two factories of Peloubet & Co., in Orange street, which was destroyed by the young cyclone of a few weeks ago, is about to be replaced by a steeper structure. The foundations are already laid, and the structure is soon expected from the builders, Messrs. Meeker & Hedden, Newark.

The Watervliet Club complain that the report of the game of baseball, published in last week's issue of the Record, was a considerable error. They say that the Bloomfield Club should be honest and fair in reporting their record, and that the Watervliet Club should be honest and fair in reporting their record.

The following will be of interest to the Census Commissioners in this vicinity. A decision concerning the construction of the Census Act by the Supreme Court has been made by the Secretary of the Interior. The decision is that the rate of forty cents per hour for the time actually employed in the work—that is, for those engaged at that time the time is not to exceed sixty cents per hour.

A JUST AND FAIR REVIEW.

THE CHRISTIAN PAPER'S ESTIMATE OF THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

HANCOCK'S RECORD ADVERTISED AS A CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT BY THE CHRISTIAN PAPER.

Following is the Christian at Work's comment on the Democratic candidates:

"Upon receiving the news of the nomination of General James A. Garfield by the Republican National Convention, as its candidate for the Presidency, the Christian at Work took occasion to say that, 'if the Democrats nominate a good and true man, the country will have nothing to apprehend as to the result one way or the other.' In placing General Winfield S. Hancock before the public as its Presidential candidate, the Democratic have unquestionably nominated a good and true man, one who has maintained an honorable record for thirty-four years, and whose character, abilities and fitness are unimpeachable. Now let us hope that such candidates as the Republicans and Democrats have put forth we shall have a dignified, good-tempered, if not a brilliant, contest. Despite what passionate partisans may say, the country is not going to the dogs, whoever is elected. Were such men always put forth by the great parties, there would be fewer fears for the country than we sometimes meet with."

From the Evangelist:

"But despite the old and new of popular feelings, and whatever may be thought of its inconsistencies, this great political gathering has done well. Its action throughout has been more creditable than its opponents predicted. It has proved that there may be great safety for the country in the hands of a Republican, which provides an escape for popular agitation. It shows too that these great bodies are not always in the control of their leaders; that not unfrequently they take the bit between their teeth, and dash on in a direction wholly unexpected. So it proved at Chicago, and the lesson has been repeated at Cincinnati."

"But let us be thankful for what we have got in both cases—that we have presented to the country two pure, upright and honorable men. Measures, not men, was once a partisan slogan. A better motto would be 'Measures and Men,' and just now the latter are well in the foreground, and each party has done itself honor in the choice of its leaders. The selection of Garfield and Hancock to lead the opposing hosts will greatly modify the canvass of the coming fall. It will be a signal advance upon the political contest of former years, which were full of bitterness, and degraded by coarse attacks upon personal character. Having put excellent men in nomination, there will be a perceptible uplift all around. The occupation of the political roster, if not quite as yet much dignified, and he is likely to fall into the background, while men who are able to discuss the claims of the two parties, with reference to the principles which they represent, will come to the front."

From The Illustrated Christian Weekly:

The Presidential campaign is now in full blast. The Democratic Convention at Cincinnati last week with great unanimity nominated Gen. W. S. Hancock for President and W. H. English for Vice President. Gen. Hancock is a tried and successful Union soldier, and an accomplished man, with a staid reputation. It is fortunate for the country that the candidates of the two great parties are personally of such high character, and that what may be the result we shall be spared the shame of having in the White House a political trickster or a man of dissipated tastes and dissipated habits. The selection by the two great Conventions of men whose names had been prominent before the public, must prove to the ambitious aspirants for the highest office in the gift of the people, a significant commentary on the capriciousness of popular favor, and the uncertainty of harvesting the reward of anxious thought and diligent and consummate plans.

From the Christian Union:

The Credit Mobilier fraud was thoroughly investigated at the time, and Republicans and Democrats agreed in acquitting Mr. Garfield of all complicity with it. The Hon. J. S. Black is a fair and honest man, and his name has been placed in favor of the Republicans last year. He is altogether unjust to put him (Mr. Garfield) on the list of those who knowingly and wilfully joined the fraudulent association in question. Both the Credit Mobilier and the De Golyer scandals were sprung at Mr. Garfield in the subsequent canvass in the Western Reserve, and before a constituency as any constituency in the nation, and he was vindicated by a triumphant election.

Ex-President Theodore D. Woolsey is the Independent.

"But to return to the recent events, the Chicago Convention has shown, if we are not deceived, the increasing strength of political principle and honesty in controlling parties. I say controlling, and yet that is too strong a word. I would rather say that men are beginning to fear that the demagogue's arts—such as packing conventions, governing parties through the vote-buying and bribery, and the like—are being exposed by some kind of better sense, in short, by the people, to the good of the country—men are beginning to fear, I say, that such arts will not be endured hereafter by considerable fractions, made up of the most upright men of both parties. When once this shall become an element in political calculations, honor and honesty will begin to rise toward par. And one party puts its best men forward by the most honorable means, the other will be compelled, more or less, to do the same; otherwise it will be in danger of losing those who give respectability, as well as its character for uprightness."

INTERCHANGING COMPLIMENTS.

There was a rough statement of Mentor, who quite unexpectedly was sent for.

Uncle Sam says: "Ode home."

You shall be my next best man.

There was a queer sort of grammarian.

Who was, say, a quinquagenerian.

For an adverb he used a noun.

A verb, and sadly abused a participle.

Was our tongue by his funny grammarian.
